10. STA303 academic integrity and project code of conduct. As this is a piece of coursework at U of T, the only REAL agreement you have already made is to abide by the University of Toronto's rules and codes of conduct for students. As a student of U of T, you are responsible for understanding the requirements of the Code of Conduct on Academic Matters. Likewise, U of T also has a Code of Student Conduct, and there will be zero-tolerance of discriminatory harassment, sexual harassment and any other forms of prohibited behaviour, in the context of this project and the wider class.

Finally, these are my expectations of you, if you choose to work in a group:

- You will not exclude group members by using technology platforms they cannot access (e.g., if Google Suite tools are not available to a member due to their location), nor through primary use of a language(s) they cannot understand, nor through setting meeting times that are unreasonable for their time zone.
  - o Note: Your final report must be in English, but if your group would like to hold meetings/send messages in another language, this is totally fine as long as everyone in the group is happy with this. If not, the default should be to work primarily in English.
- You will email sta303@utoronto.ca with any groupwork concerns as soon as they arise. I cannot help you when you email me the night before the due date saying that you haven't heard from one member at all in the last two weeks. This is the kind of thing you should alert me to proactively so that I can get involved to help you find a solution.
- You will be an active and equal contributor to your group, maintain regular communication, and flag issues with completing assigned pieces of work as soon as possible. Aim to operate under a 'no surprises' policy.

For all students, I expect that you will read and understand the missed work policy (including late policy and extension request policy) for the final project, in the syllabus.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this Agreement as of the date first written above.
